Overview

Philip Bambagiotti is an experienced barrister at the NSW Bar in Australia practising in commercial law with a focus on building & construction, infrastructure, property and international law. He takes a broad and pragmatic approach to dispute resolution beyond traditional litigation, having a strong focus on arbitration as well as mediation, negotiation and overall dispute management and solutions.

Philip is admitted as a barrister in England & Wales as well as in Australia. He is a registered foreign lawyer with the Singapore Commercial Courts (SICC). He is a fellow of a number of international commercial organisations, and is an arbitrator on the AIAC and THAC panels. He holds an APEC travel card, allowing him visa free entry for business in most of the countries in the APEC group: including China, Singapore, Hong Kong, Malaysia and Canada.

He conducts a busy international international dispute resolution practice with a focus in London, East Asia (principally Hong Kong and China), the Middle East (notably Dubai) and South East Asia (Singapore, Thailand).

Philip joined 3PB in September 2019 to further develop this international commercial and construction practice. His principal areas of practice include:

- Commercial
- Building & Construction
- Insurance
- Planning & Development
- Property and strata matters
- Professional negligence
- Tax disputes
- Transport
- Arbitration, International Arbitration, Security of Payments claims and judicial review

Philip appears as an advocate in courts, arbitrations, and inquiries as well as in mediations and negotiations - with a particular emphasis on acting as an independent party representative for international, multicultural and multilingual transactional and dispute negotiations. Philip also accepts appointment as an arbitrator, a mediator, an adjudicator and a neutral evaluator.

Apart from traditional advocacy, in courts, tribunals, inquiries, and contested applications and disputes, Philip is experienced in strategic and tactical planning and dispute resolution. Clients often consult Philip early in the life of a potential dispute for long term planning and dispute management, as well as with respect to planning commercial transactions and developments.

Philip has long enjoyed a successful practice acting directly and via in-house solicitors and accountants for businesses, insurers (including property insurers, professional indemnity insurers and reinsurers), governments (including the Australian Commonwealth Government, the NSW Government and its instrumentalities and local government bodies, as well as specialist government entities such as NSW Self-Insurance Corporation and the Australian Tax Office), banks and financiers, industry groups, property developers, builders and subcontractors, building professionals, and landlords.

He takes a collegiate approach and distinctively pragmatic team approach to legal advice and assistance. He accepts retainer relationships as well as ad-hoc instructions. Some in-house as well as private practice solicitors retain Philip to provide point or issue specific advice or even representation within the framework of a wider dispute (as a specialised supplement to a transactional or dispute legal team).

Experience as a Solicitor

As is the practice in Australia, he was a solicitor for some years before going to the NSW Bar. He worked in Sydney with commercial law firms Dunhill Madden Butler and Gadens Ridgeway, where he was promoted to a Senior Associate in 1996 in their commercial and construction law teams. He was called to the bar shortly afterwards, but retains a close understanding of solicitors' commercial practice and maintains good and close relationships with his solicitors.

Expertise

Construction and engineering

Philip Bambagiotti practice focuses on all aspects of building, engineering and construction law – domestic and international. He acts in "traditional" building disputes such as those about building contracts, consultants contracts, defects, variations, delays and technical issues.

However, as is the Australian approach, his busy practice though extends to commercial litigation dealing with issues affecting the building and construction industry, such as certifier & building consultant negligence, latent defects in buildings and losses suffered, development contracts, property rights disputes, insurance & insurance disputes, contract /tort/ and restitutionary claims, associated planning issues – as well as disputes arising from joint ventures, shareholder agreements, partnering projects, directors & officers liability, related insolvency & corporate restructuring, financing disputes, and the like.

He appears as a barrister in courts and tribunals, as well as in arbitrations, mediations, adjudications and as a neutral evaluator.

Philip is long-regarded as one of the foremost practitioners in the specialist area of Building & Construction Law. Apart from his extensive experience in acting for different interests in construction disputes, he has also authored the leading text on residential building disputes in New South Wales, Building Disputes and the Home Building Act 1989 (NSW), of which a 2nd Edition is underway. He is the general editor of the National Building Service.

He has a particular interest in international arbitration. He is a Fellow of the Chartered Institute of Arbitrators (FCI Arb) and is a panel arbitrator with the Thailand Arbitration Center (THAC) and the Asian International Arbitration Center, based in Malaysia (FAiAC).

Being Australian, French, & Italian, Philip has always had an international element to his practice. He has been a member of the Union Internationale des Avocats / International Association of Lawyers (UIA) since his first year at the bar (for more than 20 years), and has recently been appointed the UIA's Regional Secretary for Oceania (which puts him on the UIA Governing Board).

He is very active in arbitration and mediation practice, particularly in East Asia, and is a member of a range of Construction and Arbitration law organisations operating in the region. Apart from the SICC (where he is a registered foreign practitioner) and CI Arb (where he undertook all the qualifying elements in Hong Kong), he is a Fellow of the International Dispute Resolution Academy (Hong Kong), a member of the Society of Construction Law (Hong Kong), a Fellow with the THAC, and a Fellow with the AiAC. He is also a member of a range of international law organisations, such as the ICC, and the IBA.

Notable cases include :

Mick Fabar Constructions P/L v Lingrp P/L[2019] NSWSC 158 (26 February 2019) where he defended an appeal from a lower court decision on a building case –involving issues of formation of contract and repudiation.

Vella v Mir[2019] NSWCATAP 28 (31 January 2019)in which he appeared for the builder in a successful appeal in a building case. This decision is notable for the adoption of the submission that the terms of sec 18F Home Building Act 1989 are a jurisdictional issue, rather than being properly characterized as a limitation provision.It effectively reverses the way that those issues are to be dealt with in Statutory Warranty claims (and will apply to proceedings in courts as well as in the tribunal).

Indorato v Ottaviano t/a Transbuild Constructions[2019] NSWCATAP 115 (20 January 2019) in which appeared for the builder in successfully defending an appeal, on questions of formation of building contracts, and the proper inference to be drawn from payments.

O'Neill v Community Association DP 270158[2018] NSWCATAP 272 (20 November 2018): he represented the community association in an appeal from a community management association dispute and succeeded, including in an application for Ku-ring-gai Council v Chan[2017] NSWCA 226 (7 September 2017), being the local council's appeal from Chan v Acres, involving a case for a claim in negligence for economic loss arising from allegedly faulty certification of building work.(NSWCA). This case deals with the question of the extension of duty of care to statutory building certifiers, and is an important case on the application of the principles identifying economic loss in the building/construction context. He acted for the Council in defending the application for special leave to the High Court, where that application was dismissed.

Chan v Ku-ring Gai Council[2018] HCA 21 (HCA) 2017 : commercial arbitration between an architect and developer regarding a dispute as to the extent of the architect's retainer, allegations of breach of retainer, and reconciliation of claim (conducted by grade 1 arbitrator)

He appeared in the appeal, see The Owners –Strata Plan No 66375 v King above.

Foyv Calliden Insurance[2017] NSWDC 33 (3 March 2017) per Hatzistergos DCJ involving questions of the true construction of statutory periods of grace in insurance provisions of the Home Building Act 1989 as well as the constitutional validity of statutory amendments to that Act by reference to the Insurance Contracts Act 1984 and Commonwealth Constitution Act 1900(NSWDC).

(NSWSC). The case, however, turned upon the proprietary nature of unregistered interests in Torrens Title land and the nature of 'title'. It is the first such consideration of these issues.

Chan v Acres [2015] NSWSC 1885 (11 December 2015) in which he appeared for a local council defending a case for a claim in negligence for economic loss arising from allegedly faulty certification of building work. (NSWSC) This is now one of the significant case on this point in NSW, following as it does the question of the extension of duty of care to statutory building certifiers.

Wang v Kaymet Corporation Pty Ltd [2015] NSWSC 1459 (6 October 2015) in which he successfully defended a group of developers who rescinded off-the-plan sales contracts. This is the first modern case dealing with the topical sunset clause issue in off-the-plan contracts.

In late 2015, he appeared for the owners' corporation in the Inquest into the fire and death of Connie Zhang, which occurred following a prominent and tragic apartment block fire in Sydney. The issue involved the proper construction and application of the building code to the building. This led to recommendations that are likely to lead to statutory reform. Further, the Zhang inquest has led to now current Supreme Court proceedings, in which he is briefed. (NSWSC)

De Armas v Peters [2015] NSWSC 1050, in which he appeared for the plaintiff insurer on an appeal involving the application of extended res judicata principles and the nature of subrogated interests in choses in action. This was the first consideration of that particular aspect of those principles at superior court level. (NSWSC)

In 2014 and 2015, he appeared in the latter of a series of cases involving the capacity of the statutory owners' corporation to bring proceedings for building defects. These included: The Owners - Strata Plan No 70798 v Bakkante Constructions Pty Ltd (2014) 88 NSWLR 513, [2014] NSWCA 410 as well as a number of others. (NSWCA)

He appeared for the respondents in the leading Australian case on tort claims for economic loss in relation to latent defects in buildings: Brookfield Multiplex v The Owners - Strata Plan No 61288 (2014) 254 CLR 185, [2014] HCA 36 (8 October 2014). This case has re-defined the way that such negligence cases are decided. (HCA)

He appeared for the Building Insurers Guarantee Corporation in The Owners - Strata Plan No 61162 v Lipman; The Owners - Strata Plan No 61162 v Building Insurers' Guarantee Corporation, a claim against a statutory insurer for defects in an apartment building. (NSWSC). This decision then led to the significant decision on costs: The Owners - Strata Plan No. 61162 v Lipman The Owners Strata Plan No 61162 v Building Insurer's Guarantee Corporation [2014] NSWSC 622 (23 May 2014) providing an overwhelming success for the client. (NSWSC)

In 2012, he appeared in a substantial commercial arbitration, between a major institutional property owner and a building company. In 2011, he was briefed by a government to advise and to develop strategy in respect of a large scale re-insurance dispute it was having with the liquidators of a major now insolvent insurer. This case largely re-directed the development of the Court's approach to subsequent purchaser liability as to this Act. (NSWCA)

In The Owners SP 69352 v Vero Insurance Ltd (Home Building)[2009] NSWCTTT 396 (22 July 2009), he appeared in a leading case as to the true construction of Home Warranty Insurance policies in relation to owners corporations. That case ultimately went on appeal to the Court of Appeal, and represents one of the major authorities on the question.(NSWCTTT)

Property

Planning & environmental law are an integral part of a construction/property practice, and has always been a feature of his practice. Apart from commercial and similar kinds of matters for and against local government and planning bodies, he has also been involved in matters such as:

- Advised a local government authority as to development obligations and options in respect of the future and remediation of a large regional tipping facility.
- Advised upon the options for re-development on a complicated strata site (that involved a town-house development with a substantial undeveloped stage). The developer wanted to expand the, as then, incomplete part of a staged development. The issue being the opposition of the owners of the rest of the development and the validity of the consent.
- Acted in an application for the change of use of a workshop to a specialised medical facility. This involved contested appeal to the planning panel and thereafter, strategy for merit appeal to the relevant Court.
- Advises in matters involving encroachment and compulsory easements for access, including a case involving claims for rectification of a common driveway and large retaining wall arising from disputes as to the construction of a deposited plan (and the consequence of the construction of that plan).
- various disputes about relative property rights and obligations arising from strata plans and the development/redevelopment of strata sites.

He has acted for, and provided advice to, local councils in enforcement of environmental and planning laws, as well as in respect of challenges to consents and assessments. In particular, he has acted for the Penrith City Council in a range of matters over the years, and continue to be retained by them for specialist matters.
